HISTORY AND MEETINGS

THE Society of Mayflower Descendants came into existence in the month of December, 1894.

It was not the first organization intended to honor the Pilgrim Fathers exclusively. The Pilgrim Society was organized in 1820 and still exists for this purpose, with headquarters at Plymouth, Massachusetts, as well as the Pilgrim Record Society, organized in New York, December 30, 1875, continuing until about 1881. The latter, possibly both of these, included, with the Mayflower Pilgrims, those coming on the Fortune, the Ann, and the Little James.

While these societies were formed distinctively in honor of the Pilgrims, the New England societies, which have had an honorable place among the organizations of the land, honored Pilgrims, Puritans, and all other founders, as well as all citizens who have added to the glory of New England.

The New England Society, having adopted as its day for annual celebration the date of the landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock, we were compelled to choose another day, for it was becoming that nothing should interfere with what already existed in honor of the Pilgrims, especially as all who would come into our membership were either enrolled or interested there.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants was not intended so much to honor the individuals or their leaders as to commemorate the sentiment, which made them pioneers of a principle, for which they exiled themselves, first to a foreign land, then to an unexplored wilderness, in search of civil and religious liberty.

The compact, drafted and signed on the Mayflower, while in Cape Cod Harbor, November 11 (o. s.) 1620, before they landed, was the expression of this fact; and became for all time the germ of the American Constitution (evolved in due time) as well as the foundation of English Christianity and civil liberty in New England, which, by their influence and example, have spread until they have leavened the entire nationality, though made up of settlers from every land and clime, and bringing the education and prejudices of divers, even antagonistic, races.

The memorable compact thus became the key-note of our association, and its date our anniversary day.

In order to emphasize the Pilgrim idea, as exhibited by those who faced the persecutions in England and pursuit to Holland, formed the church and community of English Christians in Amsterdam and Leyden, and finally first braved the perils of the wilderness to find what was denied them elsewhere, we limited our membership to lineal descendants of passengers and signers of the compact on the first trip of the Mayflower, which ended at Plymouth in 1620. We point to the vessel and the voyage, rather than the landing and the settlement.

In answer to a hurried line, sent amid a press of duties, two agreed upon a third, and formulated a call which was printed and issued in manner following:

NEW YORK, December 15th, 1894.

You are invited to be present at a conference of the descendants of the Mayflower Pilgrims, who landed at Plymouth in 1620. The meeting will be held at the rooms of the New York Genealogical Society, No. 23 West 44th Street, at 8 P. M., on the anniversary of the landing, Dec. 22d, 1894.

Please extend this invitation to any of your friends who had ancestors on the Mayflower.

RICHARD H. GREENE.
EDWARD L. NORTON.
WILLIAM MILNE GRINNELL.

The mistake of a day in changing the date from old to new style may be excused, as it has been made many times; we know somewhat more about these subjects now, but admit there is much still to learn.

At this preliminary meeting, at the rooms of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, there were present, besides the three who issued the call:

Walter Scott Allerton	James H. Hoadley
Francis Bacon	Augustus H. Hutchins
J. Bayard Backus	Waldo Hutchins
William H. Doty	Edward Clinton Lee
Miss H. M. Fisher	Miss Susan T. Martin
Marshall W. Greene	Mrs. Russell Sage
Miss L. B. Grinnell	Victor Seggermann
Miss Nancy Grinnell	Joseph J. Slocum
Mr. Edward B. Hill	George H. Warren
Mrs. Edward B. Hill

Mrs. Wm. H. McCartney communicated by telegraph.

An explanation of the purpose of the meeting having been made, a vote was taken for temporary officers, which resulted in the election of Richard Henry Greene as chairman, and William Milne Grinnell as secretary, those present then enrolled, as appears above.

A committee was appointed to formulate a plan for the organization, to consist of Richard Henry Greene (chairman), J. Bayard Backus, Edward Clinton Lee, Walter Scott Allerton, Joseph Jermain Slocum, Edward Loudon Norton, and William Milne Grinnell, and this committee, on February 22, 1895, chose Mr. Norton as its treasurer.

At a meeting of the enrolled members, March 28, 1895, the following were nominated and elected as a Board of Assistants:

Richard Henry Greene, William Milne Grinnell, Edward Loudon Norton, J. Bayard Backus, Edward Clinton Lee, Walter Scott Allerton, and Joseph Jermain Slocum.

At a meeting of the board on the same day Mr. Greene was made chairman; Mr. Norton, secretary; and Mr. Grinnell, treasurer.

Lots were drawn to determine the duration of the term of each assistant, which resulted in Messrs. Greene, Grinnell, and Allerton receiving the long term, and Messrs. Backus, Norton, Lee, and Slocum the term ending 1896.

This board with the above officers continued to act until the annual meeting, prior to which time more than a hundred members had been enrolled.

At the annual meeting, November 22, 1895, the following were elected the first officers of the society:

HENRY E. HOWLAND, Governor
EDWARD CLINTON LEE, Deputy-Governor
JOSEPH JERMAIN SLOCUM, Captain
REV. RODERICK TERRY, D.D., Elder
EDWARD LOUDON NORTON, Treasurer
WILLIAM MILNE GRINNELL, Secretary
RICHARD HENRY GREENE, Historian

The board at its meeting, December 4, 1895, appointed Dr. J. Dougal Bissell surgeon, and filled the vacancies among the assistants by the election of John Taylor Terry, Henry Farnam Dimock, George Herbert Warren, Howland Davis, and Waldo Hutchins.

At the annual meeting held November 23, 1896, the following were chosen, to wit:

HENRY E. HOWLAND, Governor
JOHN TAYLOR TERRY, Deputy-Governor
JOSEPH JERMAIN SLOCUM, Captain

Rev. Roderick Terry, Elder
Frederic Horace Hatch, Secretary
William Milne Grinnell, Treasurer
Richard Henry Greene, Historian
James Dougal Bissell, M.D., Surgeon

On December 15, 1896, the following were chosen delegates to a conference to be held at Plymouth, Massachusetts, January 12, 1897, for the purpose of organizing, with the other societies, a General Society of Mayflower Descendants: Edward B. Hill, Richard H. Greene, Dr. J. D. Bissell, Mrs. Russell Sage, Dr. Roderick Terry, J. Bayard Backus, W. Milne Grinnell, George H. Warren, Walter S. Allerton and Howland Davis.

Mr. E. B. Hill and Mrs. R. Sage did not attend; their places were supplied by Marshall Winslow Greene and Frederic Horace Hatch. These ten constituted the delegation from the New York Society at the meeting, January 12, 1897, when the General Society was organized.

Connecticut

On the seventh of March, 1896, The New England Society of Mayflower Descendants was incorporated under the laws of the State of Connecticut, by Articles of Association which were signed by Benjamin Stark, Laurence Waterman Miner, Frances Potter, Percy Coe Eggleston, William Molthrop Stark, Mrs. Annie Holt Smith, Elizabeth C. G. Stark, Genevieve Stark, Mrs. Mary L. Bolles Branch and Lucy Palmer Butler, all of New London.

The first officers were elected March 30, 1896, as follows:

Benjamin Stark, Governor
Laurence W. Miner, Secretary and Treasurer
Frances Potter, Historian
William M. Stark,
Percy C. Eggleston,
Lucy P. Butler,
} Board of Assistants

On August 26th William Waldo Hyde was elected Deputy-Governor.

On September 30th the board was enlarged by the addition of Alice Stanton Turner, Mrs. Mary L. Bolles Branch, Mrs. Wolcott B. Manwaring and Mrs. Charles B. Jennings.

The first annual meeting, held December 21, 1896, with ninety-one members on the roll, elected:

William Waldo Hyde, Hartford, Governor
Henry A. Morgan, Aurora, N. Y., Deputy-Governor
Royal B. Bradford, U. S. N., Captain
Percy Coe Eggleston, New London, Secretary
Laurence W. Miner, New London, Treasurer
Frances Potter, New London, Historian

William M. Stark, Mrs. W. B. Manwaring, Percy Coe Eggleston, Lucy P. Butler, Alice S. Turner, Mrs. George D. Whittlesey and Mrs. John L. Branch, all of New London, Assistants.

January 9, 1897, by an almost unanimous vote, the society agreed to unite with the other societies, at Plymouth, on the 12th, and form a General Society.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

OF THE

GENERAL SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS

Article I.

NAME.

The name of this Society shall be the "General Society of Mayflower Descendants."

*Mr. Tower declined to serve and the board selected James Mauran Rhodes.

Article II.

OBJECT.

The object of this Society is to promote the interests that are common to all the State Societies of Mayflower Descendants, which can best be served by a federal body, and more especially to secure united effort to discover and publish original matter in regard to the Pilgrims, together with existing data known only to antiquarians, thus honoring our epoch-making sires.

Article III.

MEMBERSHIP.

All persons over eighteen years of age who are descended from a passenger on the Mayflower, on the voyage which terminated at Plymouth, New England, in December, 1620, or from a signer of the "Compact," shall be eligible to membership. They must be proposed, seconded, and elected. They shall pay the initiation fee and dues, and comply with the conditions in the Constitution and the By-Laws.

Article IV.

OFFICERS AND BOARD OF ASSISTANTS.

Sec. 1.—The officers of this Society shall be Governor-General, Deputy Governors-General, Captain-General, Elder-General, Secretary-General, Treasurer-General, Historian-General and Surgeon-General.

The above officers, together with seven Assistants, shall compose the Board of Assistants.

The officers and the seven Assistants shall be elected at each General Congress of the Society, and shall hold office until their successors shall have been elected and qualified.

SEC. 2.—The duties, powers and privileges of the officers and Board of Assistants of the Society shall be regulated by the By-Laws, so long as they are consistent with this Constitution.

SEC. 3.—Vacancies occasioned by death or resignation may be filled by the Board of Assistants for the unexpired term.

ARTICLE V.

THE GENERAL CONGRESS.

SEC. 1.—The Government of the Society shall be vested in a General Congress.

SEC. 2.—When the General Congress is not in session, the Board of Assistants shall have all the powers and authority of the General Congress, and shall report all action taken by them to the next Congress. Except that the Board of Assistants shall have no power to amend this Constitution or such By-Laws as the General Congress may adopt.

SEC. 3.—The General Congress shall consist of representatives from each State Society.

The representation shall be in the proportion of one representative or delegate to every twenty members, or majority fraction thereof.

Each organized State Society shall be entitled to at least three delegates.

SEC. 4.—The General Congress shall elect the officers of the General Society and the seven Assistants, one Deputy Governor-General being elected from each State Society, except the one to which the Governor-General belongs.

SEC. 5.—The General Congress and the Board of Assistants shall have authority in all strictly national questions, and in all such matters as may be referred to them by the State Societies.

SEC. 6.—The General Congress shall meet every third year at Plymouth, Massachusetts, on such date as may be appointed by the previous General Congress. The Board of Assistants may call an extra session of the last General Congress at such time and place as they may determine. Such call shall be issued one month in advance, and no other business except that stated in the call shall be considered.

Article VI.

STATE SOCIETIES.

Sec. 1.—The Board of Assistants may at any time authorize the formation of a Society of Mayflower Descendants in any State, whenever twenty members residing in such State shall prepare and sign a request for a charter for such Society and file it with the Secretary-General.

Sec. 2.—After the formation of a Society in any State, all persons residing in such State desiring to join the Society of Mayflower Descendants, shall do so through the local State Society, unless permission in writing be obtained from that Society to join some other.

Sec. 3.—All State Societies shall have authority to form their own Constitutions and By-Laws, which, however, shall not be in any respect inconsistent with the Constitution of the General Society.

Sec. 4.—Each State Society shall pay annually to the Treasurer of the General Society such sum per capita as shall be assessed by the last General Congress. And it shall be the duty of the General Society to publish the "Triennial Book."

Sec. 5.—Each State Society shall annually transmit to the Secretary-General a statement giving the names and addresses of its members, and any matters of interest in its history; also making any suggestions which it may deem profitable for the Society to consider.

Sec. 6.—Each State Society shall file with the Historian-General the duplicate pedigree papers of all persons admitted as members of the Society. The preliminary applications and the pedigree blanks shall be uniform, and shall be issued to the State Societies by the General Society.

SEC. 7.—Should any pedigree paper at any time appear to the Historian-General to be deficient, he shall return it to the Historian of the State from which it comes, for further investigation and correction, and shall report the fact at the next meeting of the General Board of Assistants.

ARTICLE VII.

SEAL.

SEC. 1.—The Seal of the Society shall contain a representation of a sailing vessel of the Seventeenth Century, and around it the name of the Society, and the words, "1620, Plymouth, 1897."

SEC. 2.—All State Societies shall adopt this Seal, with the words "Plymouth, 1620," and the name of their own State and the year of their organization.

ARTICLE VIII.

CERTIFICATE, INSIGNIA, ETC.

SEC. 1.—There shall be a certificate, insignia, rosette, and flag, selected and approved by the General Society.

SEC. 2.—These shall be the same for all the State Societies, the certificates being issued by the officers of the General Society and countersigned by the officers of the State Society.

ARTICLE IX.

DEFINITIONS.

Whenever the word "State" occurs in this Constitution, it shall be held to include within its meaning: a Territory of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any foreign country.

Article X.

AMENDMENTS.

Any proposed amendment to this Constitution must be submitted in writing, by a State Society, to the Secretary-General of the General Society at least three months prior to the meeting of the General Congress at which such amendment is to be considered.

The Secretary-General shall cause a printed copy of all proposed amendments to be mailed to the Secretary of each State Society two months before the date set for the meeting of the General Congress.

A two-thirds vote of all the delegates present at the General Congress shall be required for the adoption of any amendment.

BY-LAWS

Article I.

MEETINGS.

Sec. 1.—Meetings of the General Board of Assistants may be called by the Governor-General, or upon the written request of three of its members. Notice of each meeting shall be given one month in advance, and shall state the object of the meeting.

Sec. 2.—A majority of the members elected as delegates shall constitute a quorum of the General Congress for the transaction of business. At all meetings of the Board of Assistants, five members shall constitute a quorum.

Article II.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

Sec. 1.—It shall be the duty of the Governor-General to preside at all meetings of the General Congress and the Board of Assistants, and perform such other duties as pertain to the chief officer of an organization.

Sec. 2.—It shall be the duty of the Deputy Governor-General designated by the Board of Assistants, to exercise all the functions of the office of Governor-General during his absence or disability.

Sec. 3.—The Captain-General shall carry out all orders of the Governor-General or the General Congress, and act as Marshal at parades and on occasions of ceremony.

Sec. 4.—It shall be the duty of the Elder-General to officiate, when called upon, at any meeting of the General Congress or Society. He shall have been ordained as an elder, bishop, minister, or deacon of a Christian Church.

Sec. 5.—It shall be the duty of the Secretary-General to record the proceedings of the General Congress and Board of Assistants, and to keep complete lists of all the members; to notify members of the Board of Assistants of all meetings to be held; to transmit whatever notices and communications may be required by order of the General Congress, Board of Assistants, or Governor-General, and in general to perform all duties usually appertaining to such office.

He shall be the Keeper of the Seal of the General Society, and custodian of all blank pedigree papers.

Sec. 6.—It shall be the duty of the Treasurer-General to collect and take charge of all funds belonging to the General Society; to keep suitable books of account; to make all necessary disbursements upon approval of the Finance Committee, and to report the condition of the treasury at all meetings of the Board of Assistants.

He shall have charge of all the certificates, insignia, and rosettes of the Society, and dispose of the same to the members, at the prices set by the Board of Assistants.

Sec. 7.—The Historian-General shall keep a record of all celebrations of the General Society, and file all historical documents and papers. He shall keep a record of all certificates signed by him, and do any other work assigned him by the Board of Assistants.

Sec. 8.—The Surgeon-General shall have been duly admitted to the practice of medicine. He shall be under the orders of the Governor-General and Board of Assistants.

Article III.

BOARD OF ASSISTANTS AND STANDING COMMITTEES.

Sec. 1.—The Board of Assistants shall have general charge and direction of the affairs of the Society. They may fill vacancies among the officers for unexpired terms. They may appoint any or all of the following Standing Committees: Publication, Finance, Entertainment, Exercises, and Room and Property. Some one of the seven Assistants shall be Chairman of each Standing Committee appointed, and the additional members may be selected from the membership at large.

The Board of Assistants may fill vacancies occurring in committees. All committees appointed shall make reports through the Chairmen to each meeting of the Board of Assistants.

Article IV.

AMENDMENTS OR ALTERATIONS OF THE BY-LAWS.

Amendments, alterations, and additions to these By-Laws shall be made in the same manner as amendments and changes of the Constitution.

Any section of these By-Laws may be suspended for a special purpose at any time by a unanimous vote of the members present at a meeting of the General Congress.

Howland, Roderick Terry, Richard Henry Greene, Mrs. Russell Sage, John Taylor Terry, George Herbert Warren, Frederick Chandler Seabury, James Dougal Bissell, Jared Weed Bell, Pelham Winslow Warren, Mrs. Arthur H. Pitkin, William Milne Grinnell, Hamilton B. Tompkins, Edward W. Dewey, Mrs. Joseph H. Oglesby, Marshall Winslow Greene, and Mrs. R. Bruce Ricketts—seventeen.

Connecticut: William Waldo Hyde, Charles A. L. Totten, Mrs. Sarah T. Kinney, John Crocker Foote, Henry A. Morgan, Percy Coe Eggleston, and Wolcott B. Manwaring—seven.

Massachusetts: Winslow Warren, Myles Standish, George Ernest Bowman, Gamaliel Bradford, Marcus Morton, Mrs. Sydney Harwood, George Whitefield Stone, J. Myles Standish, Mrs. C. P. Clark, Mrs. F. N. Knapp, Mrs. John F. Gaylord, and Miss Caroline B. Warren—twelve.

Pennsylvania: Josiah Granville Leach, Mrs. William H. McCartney, and Mrs. Effingham Perot—three.

Illinois: Josiah Lewis Lombard, Edward Milton Adams, and Mrs. Seymour Morris—three.

Mr. William T. Davis presented to the General Society

a bronze replica of the bas-relief on the Forefathers Monument representing the signing of the compact.

Mr. R. H. Greene was appointed a committee to prepare resolutions expressing the gratitude of this society to those who were instrumental in returning the Bradford manuscript.

It was voted that the officers of the General Society shall be members of the General Congress.

The following officers of the General Society were then elected to serve until the Congress in 1900:

Governor-General

Hon. Henry E. Howland, New York

Deputy Governors-General

William Waldo Hyde, Connecticut
Winslow Warren, Massachusetts
Francis Olcott Allen, Pennsylvania
Josiah Lewis Lombard, Illinois

Captain-General

Myles Standish, M.D., Massachusetts

Elder-General

Rev. Roderick Terry, D.D., New York

Secretary-General

George Ernest Bowman, Massachusetts

Treasurer-General

James Mauran Rhodes, Pennsylvania

Historian-General

Richard Henry Greene, New York

Surgeon-General

Orlando Brown, M.D., Connecticut

Assistants-General

Howland Davis, New York
Sylvester Clark Dunham, Connecticut
William Molthrop Stark, Connecticut
Rev. Edward Lord Clark, D.D., Massachusetts
Frank William Sprague, Massachusetts
Edward Clinton Lee, Pennsylvania
Josiah Granville Leach, Pennsylvania

After the adjournment a memorial window was presented to the Memorial Church on behalf of the New York Society by the Governor-General, and accepted by Mr. Arthur Lord.

The delegates and members were entertained at a dinner at the Samoset House by the Massachusetts Society, at which its Governor, Gamaliel Bradford, presided, and addresses were made by Henry E. Howland, Governor-General; Arthur Lord, president of the Pilgrim Society; and Winslow Warren, Deputy Governor-General.

Second Session

On September 6, 1898, the General Congress was reconvened at Plymouth, Massachusetts, Josiah Lewis Lombard, Deputy Governor-General, presiding.

Delegates from societies in the District of Columbia and State of Ohio were admitted.

The committee appointed to prepare resolutions on the return of Bradford's manuscript history reported at length. The resolutions were adopted.

An original poem, by Mrs. Frank K. Owens of Ypsilanti, Michigan, was read.

Rev. Dr. Backus was appointed a committee to prepare and cable the congratulations of the society to Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, which was done in the following words:

SEATTLE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

"American Minister, The Hague, Holland. The General Society of Mayflower Descendants, assembled at Plymouth, Massachusetts, September 6, in grateful remembrance of Holland extends congratulations to Queen Wilhelmina, with earnest wishes for a prosperous reign."

The visiting delegates and members of the society participated in the ceremony of unveiling the tablet placed on the site of the "Common House," the first building in Plymouth, and on the following day, on a steamer chartered for the excursion, visited Provincetown and Truro, at the invitation of Deputy Governor-General Lombard, when Pilgrim Spring and Corn Hill were visited and marked, and a shore dinner was enjoyed.

SECOND TRIENNIAL CONGRESS

The second triennial congress was held at Plymouth, Massachusetts, September 15, 1900. Deputy Governor-General Lombard, having been designated to act in the absence of the Governor-General, presided, and the congress elected the Historian-General as its secretary.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel F. Warren invoked the divine blessing.

The following were appointed a committee on credentials: Frederick W. Parker, Edwin A. Hill, and Howland Davis. They reported eighty-one delegates present, as follows—New York: Richard Henry Greene, John Taylor Terry, Howland Davis, William Milne Grinnell, James Le Baron Willard, Walter Steuben Carter, John Newel Tilden, John Whittlesey Walton, Warren C. Crane, Edward S. Atwood, Linus E. Fuller, Marshall W. Greene, Mrs. Sylvanus Reed, Cyrus F. Paine, Mrs. Stephen V. C. White, Marguerite T. Doane, Frederick N. Le Baron, Mrs. Emma B. Chamberlin, Hamilton B. Tompkins, Mrs. R. H. Greene, H. K. Bush-Brown, Cassius M. Wicker, Mrs. Albert H. Pitkin, Mrs. Charles H. Terry, Charles Henry Wight, Mrs. H. C. Manning, Lewis Deitz, Mrs. F. W. Hopkins, and Mrs. James M. McKinlay—twenty-nine.

Connecticut: William Waldo Hyde, Charles Dudley Warner, James Gibson Johnson, Percy Coe Eggleston, Nathan Holt Smith, Edwin A. Hill, Sylvester C. Dunham, Mrs. Catharine D. Bramble, Mrs. Frances W. B. Downs, and Lucy Palmer Butler—ten.

Massachusetts: Myles Standish, Frederick W. Parker, William T. Davis, Frederick S. Vaill, George C. Nightingale, Charles A. Burditt, Edward T. Barker, Liberty E. Holden, Horace H. Soule, Jr., J. Weston Allen, Alfred S. Johnson, Mrs. E. T. Barker, Susan Barker Willard, Abby Louise Allen, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, Mrs. Charles H. Fisher, Mrs. Samuel G. Webber, Mrs. James A. Remick, Maria Webber, Sarah Webber, Mrs. John F. Gaylord, Mrs. Frederick N. Knapp, Mrs. William S. Kyle, Caroline B. Warren, Mrs. James E. Sherman, and Mary Russell Hodge—twenty-six.

Pennsylvania: Josiah Granville Leach, Ashbel Welch,

Mrs. William H. McCartney, Eben Francis Barker, Lucretia C. Lennig, Anne Law Hubbell and A. R. Welch—seven.

Illinois: Josiah Lewis Lombard, Mrs. E. W. Blatchford and Edward Milton Adams—three.

District of Columbia: William Lowry Marsh, Algernon A. Aspinwall, Mrs. Preston H. Bailhache, Mrs. William H. Chany—four.

Ohio: Herbert Jenney, William Howard Doane and Ida F. Doane—three.

New Jersey: Daniel F. Warren and Mrs. J. H. Oglesby—two.

The officers whose names are printed at the beginning of this volume were elected unanimously to serve for three years; the selection of Historian-General was left to the board, with power.

A committee on constitutional revision was named, consisting of Winslow Warren, William Waldo Hyde, Walter S. Carter, L. E. Holden and Walter M. Howland.

The committee to publish the book was discharged, and R. H. Greene was made chairman of a new committee, with J. Granville Leach, Professor Victor C. Alderson, Jeremiah Richards and Dr. Myles Standish.

Thanks were voted to the donors of historic sites, and Lorenzo D. Baker, John B. Perry, Warren W. Small and Mary J. Perry were appointed committee for Corn Hill, and Lorenzo D. Baker, William Thomas Davis and Frederick Wesley Parker for Truro sites.

A committee for the reception Saturday evening at the Samoset was named, consisting of Marshall W. Greene, Ashbel Welch, Mrs. E. P. Barker, Mrs. S. V. White and Mrs. E. G. Chamberlin.

Announcements were made of Brewster and Howland meetings, and the dedication of Bradford boulder and tablet, at Kingston, on Monday, the presentation to the Massachusetts Society to be made by Honorable William T. Davis of Plymouth, and to be received by Richard Henry Greene of New York.

Two services were arranged for the Sabbath: in the afternoon at Clark's Island, which, on account of the storm, was held at the Samoset; in the evening at the Church of the Pilgrimage, where the principal address was made by Rev. Dr. James Gibson Johnson—subject: "The Nation's Debt to the Pilgrims." [1] The pastor, Rev. D. Melancthon James, Dr. Warren, and Mr. Greene also took part in the service. The choir was reinforced by delegates under the lead of W. Howard Doane, composer of the music of the Mayflower Song, which, with Mrs. Hemans's Hymn and other appropriate selections, was well rendered.

Pilgrimages were made on the different days of the week to the Winslow Burying-ground and Webster House, Marshfield; the Alden and Standish houses, cemetery, and monument, Duxbury; the Howland site at Rocky Nook; the Bradford sites at Kingston; and the many points of interest in Plymouth.

The Second Congress was an occasion long to be re-

[1] So many at the Congress expressed the wish for the publication of Dr. Gibson's address, that we have decided to add it to this volume, thereby saving expense of printing and distribution of a separate booklet. We are sure a little appropriate reading matter will add to the book, and the trifle added to the cost of this publication may be met by those who expressed the desire, and others who will be glad to read it; they may send their contributions to the Treasurer-General, who will acknowledge them, as donations for this purpose, and add the amount to the fund levied by the assessment.

membered, but one who was selected for office by the congress, and stood in the line of Deputy Governor-Generals at the reception, has since been called from friends who loved him and many associations which delighted to honor him, and the Society of Mayflower Descendants with regret announces the loss it has suffered in one well beloved and sadly missed—Charles Dudley Warner.

THE NATION'S DEBT TO THE PILGRIMS

An Address

BY

REV. JAMES GIBSON JOHNSON, D.D.

Elder of the Connecticut Society of Mayflower Descendants

AT PLYMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS

SEPTEMBER 16, 1900

He hath not dealt so with any nation.

147TH PSALM.

WE are met here, my friends, not so much to honor the Pilgrims as to honor ourselves by renewed recognition of the fact that we are their descendants. To repeat their virtues and to emulate their example is our high standard of character and citizenship. We do our most and best for our fellow-citizens and for our religious and national life by keeping fresh in the memory of us all the men and women who landed here on that bleak winter's day—what they were, and what they did.

The Pilgrims have been fortunate in their historians. Not content with making history, they also wrote it. It has been said that the reason why the Dutch who settled New York are not as well known as the English who settled New England is that the Dutch were silent men, who were content to do their work and say nothing about it, while the Pilgrims, when they did or said anything likely to be of interest to their descendants, went home and wrote it in their journals. But a difference which escapes one who makes that statement is that the Dutch were without the consciousness, which so fully possessed the Pilgrims, that they were chosen instruments for the accomplishment of a divine purpose.

New York was settled purely for commercial purposes, and though justice may hardly have been done to the many admirable qualities of those honest Dutchmen, no one has ever thought of assigning to them any other motive for coming to this continent than to improve their fortunes. This motive no one assigns to the founders at Plymouth and Boston. They were singularly indifferent to personal interest. That the Pilgrims accepted the aid of a commercial company, called the Merchant Adventurers, in their first trip in the Mayflower as the only way, in their poverty, of securing ships to transport them has led some, in their unrelated knowledge of that fact, to ascribe to the Pilgrims the motive of self-interest, which prompted those only from whom they engaged their ships. They were poor men, and took the only way open to them of getting to America.

The first group of the Pilgrims landed in 1620, after their perilous passage across the wintry ocean in a small and unfit vessel, having twice put back for repairs. They had started in the Speedwell from Delfthaven, the port of Leyden in Holland, where they had lived for twelve years. They were joined at Southampton, England, by the Mayflower. The Speedwell, because of her utter unseaworthiness, was at last abandoned, and the Pilgrims, to the number of one hundred, were crowded into the English ship whose name is now a household word.

When summer came in their new home half their number had died from the hardship of the winter and of the new conditions, for which they were poorly prepared. Yet, seven years later they bought their independence, at a fearfully hard bargain of the London merchants, and became owners of the charter and of the products of their own labor.

These facts make more apparent the motives of the Pilgrims. An intensely religious spirit moved them. It was an unselfish purpose to do the will of God as they understood it. It needs to be said that we seriously misread history when we attempt to measure one generation of men by the light and the knowledge of a subsequent generation. If there is not advance in the moral perceptions and judgment of men as the years roll on, then all progress and all hope of progress are at an end. Nothing can be more absurd than the condemnations for intolerance which men utter concerning the Pilgrims and their associates the Puritans, unless it be the effort to excuse them by denying the facts. They were the largest and loftiest minded men of their time, but they were men of their time. It needs very little thought to show that if they had been largely ahead of their time and had broken connection with the intelligence and sympathy of their generation their influence would have been utterly lost, and the Plymouth colony would have been like so many of the other colonies of those years, short-lived and soon forgotten. Instead, they were the controlling force, and their ideas dominated the early settlement of New England.

They left the mother country and fled to Holland because they were Separatists, as they were called, from the Church of England. They believed that the Christian church should be a body of believers in Christ who were conscious of possessing the divine life, and that there was no head of the church but Jesus Christ. They rejected not only the Pope, but also the king as spiritual guide and governor, and they did not believe that there were any successors of the Apostles except in a spiritual sense, surely none to exercise an authority such as was exercised by bishops in the English Church. Their protests brought upon them persecution in England, from which they fled first to Holland, then to America, where they could be entirely free to put in practice their own beliefs. Their church was a pure democracy, each man being expected to act upon his sense of right, and the majority should determine their corporate action. It was a hazardous experiment that needed a religious faith for its inspiration, and it needed for a time the protection of what is condemned to-day as their intolerance. Without it the colony would have been captured by and subordinated to the very same power from which they fled. This was not a mere denominational question, whether the Massachusetts colonies should be Episcopalian or Congregational. If the Church of England had retained its hold upon the Puritans it is fair to say that the whole course of their development would have been different, and the colonies would never have become free from English rule. The settlers who came direct from England to the regions about Salem and Boston were loyal members of the English Church, though they mourned over the worldly and unspiritual condition of their church, and sought to reform it. Hence their name—Puritans.

Yet they condemned the Separatist Pilgrims at Plymouth for their schism. But when they came to face the necessity of organizing for worship and service, new questions arose which they had not anticipated. They were out of accord with the ecclesiastical authorities in England. Then and for many years later bishops were not given them.

In the meantime the Salem and Boston Puritans had come in contact with the Pilgrims at Plymouth and understood them better. The occasion of this better understanding is deeply interesting, since by it was determined the controlling influence of the small body of the Pilgrims on the subsequent development of ecclesiastical and civil life in all New England. Severe sickness attacked the Puritan colony at Salem, and Governor Endicott sent to Plymouth for the only physician then on the coast—Dr. Samuel Fuller, a deacon in the Plymouth Church.

The good doctor must have been one of those genial, lovable men so often found in the medical profession, whose contact with all kinds of people in their most genuine moods makes them sympathetic and tolerant. He must have belonged to the same class with "Willum McClure," who has made the fame of Ian Maclaren. We can imagine Governor Endicott and Dr. Fuller sitting by the fire through those long evenings, talking of the things which were most on their minds, and, in the absence of all that antagonistic debate which rarely advances the truth, coming into a full understanding of each other. In his letter of thanks to Governor Bradford for Dr. Fuller's services, Governor Endicott writes: "I acknowledge myself much bound to you for your kind love and care in sending Dr. Fuller among us, and rejoice much that I am by him satisfied touching your judgments of the outward form of God's worship. It is, as far as I can gather, no other than is warranted by the evidence of truth, . . . being far from the common report that hath been spread of you touching that particular." It is one of the many coincidences that suggest the divine leading that just at this critical point of time such a man as Dr. Fuller should have come in contact with Governor Endicott. Upon that incident seems to have turned the whole subsequent history of the Puritan churches. They organized as Separatist bodies. The first church organized in New England was established in 1629 at Salem out of members of the Church of England in the Congregational way. Its officers were chosen by ballot, the first instance of the use in America of the written ballot, that symbol and instrument of free government. It needs to be said that most of the Puritans of Massachusetts did not consider this act as one of separation from the Church of England, of which they still considered themselves members. The church, which was the center of life to the colonists, became thus the school of political freedom. It trained the people to the love of that natural liberty which at last would not consent to be governed from a distance by those who were unfamiliar with their needs, and who acted without regard to their interests. That which they claimed as a natural and inalienable right in their ecclesiastical concerns they saw was no less a right in their civil affairs. The influence of the Pilgrims in determining this action is unmistakable, and is ground for our imperishable gratitude.

It is interesting also, in this day of discussion as to the use and value of creeds, to notice that this first church organized by Englishmen on American soil had for its only basis of union a single sentence: "We covenant with the Lord and one with another, and do bind ourselves in the presence of God to walk together in all his ways according as he is pleased to reveal himself unto us in his blessed word of truth." We have no reason to think that this simplicity in the covenant involved any indifference as to doctrinal belief. The Puritans drew their main ideas from Geneva and were strict Calvinists, but with their Calvinism they had a firm belief, which was held by all the churches of the Reformation in the direct accountability of the soul to God, and in the right of private judgment in the interpretation of Scripture. The differences which they mainly feared were ecclesiastical, and related not to doctrine but to church government. They assumed a likeness of belief as to the main doctrines of the Bible. They insisted on agreement as to this mode of self-government which they received from the Pilgrims at Plymouth.

A large influx of colonists came in the same year of the formation of the Salem church. "Two of the most prominent of these," says Professor Walker, in his admirable history of the period, "were John and Samuel Browne. They were dissatisfied with the form and worship of the new church. To their thinking it was Separatist, and its abandonment of the Prayer Book was distasteful to them. They gathered a few like-minded spirits and held services at which the liturgy of the Establishment was used. The situation was now not unlike that from which Endicott and his friends had fled in England, only the strength of the parties was reversed.

The moderate Puritans at Salem, who had deserted the congregation and held their Anglican service, were now the nonconformists of the little commonwealth, and as such they were sent back to England by Endicott before the summer of their arrival was past." "Thus," says John Fiske, "the principle was virtually laid down that the Episcopal form of worship would not be tolerated in the colony. Episcopacy meant to them actual and practical tyranny, the very thing they had crossed the ocean expressly to get away from, and it was hardly to be supposed that they would encourage the growth of it in their new home. One or two surpliced priests, conducting worship in accordance with the Book of Common Prayer, might in themselves be excellent members of society, but behind the surpliced priest the colonist saw the intolerance of Archbishop Laud and the despotism of the Court of High Commission."

In 1631, two years later, a still more searching measure of self-protection was adopted. It was decided that "no man shall be admitted to the freedom of this body politic but such as are members of some of the churches within the limits of the same." Tested by our modern ideas this seems a degree of religious intolerance of which nothing favorable can be said. It is necessary to catch the spirit of the time in order to understand it. Only in the remotest degree was it a religious act at all. It was intended to keep out such ecclesiastical and political plotters and disturbers as would be destructive to the peace and progress of the young colony.

It is a little hard to make it appear, especially to persons who are not disposed to see it, that the same thing is true in regard to the exclusion of Quakers as was true of advocates of the Church of England. They were excluded, and on their repeated disregard of the sentence of banishment were in a very few instances (just four) under the cruel laws of their time visited with capital punishment. But we need to know, what is not always said by the easy critics of the Puritans, that those who were thus condemned really endangered the liberties of the colonies. Nothing saved the colonies, as it was, with their free and independent ways, but the absorption of the English government in its own unsettled affairs. Mutterings of the great rebellion in these new American colonies were growing more and more distinct. It was not desirable to draw too much attention to New England and its growing independence.

One widely known and much misunderstood case illustrates this difficulty. Roger Williams, "a quick-witted and pugnacious Welshman, over-fond of logical subtleties, who delighted in controversy," described by the judicious Bradford as "a man godly and zealous, having many precious parts, but very unsettled in judgment," came in 1631 first to Salem, then to Plymouth, and then back again to Salem. He was independent and fearless as to the consequences of his views, which, though familiar enough to us of to-day, were very advanced then and were frequently changing. His opinions anywhere in Europe, save perhaps in Holland, would have insured his speedy martyrdom. But for these beliefs he was not disturbed in the Bay Colony until, with that restlessness which would not permit him to be happy while peace reigned or while he was outside the smallest attainable minority, he insisted, in a published pamphlet, that to accept a right to lands in America from "the liar and blasphemer who sat on the English throne was a sin which called for speedy repentance." This may have been a just recognition of the rights of the Indians, for which Williams has been much praised, but it was of course a seditious attack on the king and on his title to the soil in Massachusetts. At the same time he, or some persons at his instigation, in a public manner cut the red cross of St. George out of the English flag, it being, as he declared, a "relique of Anti-Christ." This act, whatever the motive, could be looked upon by outsiders only as an insult to the flag and as a defiance of the royal authority. Already steps had been taken in England to revoke the Massachusetts charter. Enemies of the colony were active in England, and but for the disturbance in Scotland, which held the attention of the English government, they might have been successful in their schemes. It was in the last degree unwise and unsafe to draw attention to the Puritan colony of Massachusetts Bay by needless irritations. After a proper trial Williams was banished to England by the General Court. He did not go to England, where he undoubtedly would have been tried and condemned for treason, but escaped, by connivance of the authorities, into the forest, and made his way to Narragansett Bay, where he began the settlement of Providence. His Baptist views, for which he is wrongly said to have been persecuted by the Boston people, were not prominent until after this time, and those views he subsequently changed.

The quiet Quakers of to-day give us little idea of the disorders which they also created in executing what they felt was their divine mission—namely, to protest against the formalism of church and society. They noisily interrupted the services; women walked the streets and attended church naked, as display of their belief in the spiritual nakedness of the people; they broke empty bottles in the presence of the minister or on his head, to signify their belief in the emptiness of that organ. Their disorders were such as could not be permitted to-day, and would subject them anywhere to arrest. Everything at that time was associated with religion and the churches, both disorders and the suppression of them. Disorderly persons, who now would be dealt with by the police without inquiry as to their doctrinal beliefs, were then the subjects of ecclesiastical procedure and censure. The trouble then was that such disturbers pleaded some religious conviction as excuse for their irregularities, the processes of law were ecclesiastical, and penalties were cruel and severe. Then, again, they took notice of matters which we now leave to individual judgment, and which were to but a slight degree disorderly, if at all so. It was the spirit of the time. The laws of England requiring conformity to the Established Church were harsh and unjust. Barrow and Greenwood and Penry were hung in 1593 in England because they would not acknowledge the authority of the bishops, but persistently taught and practised the principles of the Separatists. Many more were imprisoned, some of whom died from the hardships of their prison life. In this country the Puritans were not the only offenders. In Virginia, under what was called "the wholesome discipline" of the Church of England Colony, continued absence from daily church was punishable by six months in the galleys, and similar persistent absence from Sunday worship was punishable with death. Even when this harsh rule was modified attendance at church on Sunday, both forenoon and afternoon, was enjoined on all persons whatsoever, under a heavy fine for a single wilful absence, and fifty pounds, which was a large sum in those days, was the fine for a month's neglect.

The claim that is to be made for the Puritans is not that they did not persecute persons for their beliefs, for this they certainly did; not that they had a theology that to-day we can justify, for they had not such a theology any more than they had such a science; but it is claimed for them that under their system of government, ecclesiastical and civil, they encouraged and practised that individual judgment which eliminated their crudities and errors sooner than was possible or than was true under any other system. This is shown by their earlier escape from the witchcraft craze which raged for one dreadful year among the Puritan colonists of Salem and Boston, though never for an hour among the broader minded Pilgrims of Plymouth. They never persecuted anybody. The whole number who suffered death for witchcraft in New England was thirty-two, nineteen of whom were in Salem, while during the longer prevalence of the delusion in Europe thirty thousand persons were put to death in the British Islands, seventy-five thousand in France, one hundred thousand in Germany, and untold numbers in Spain and southern Europe.

Here it is that the influence of the Pilgrims is to be traced. The vigorous independence which established forms of religious and civil government, whereby the sturdy common sense of the plain people determined in the end all questions, saved New England from the continued reign of delusions, and from the control of evil or unwise men. To paraphrase Pitt's famous sentence: The Pilgrims, having saved Plymouth by their spirit, saved New England by their example. The results, which have been many and mighty, and which have continued to our own time, are not hard to trace, and are ground for our unceasing and unqualified gratitude.

The story is but begun, and is one to which we may well return often and devoutly. The men who were trained under such a system of civil and ecclesiastical government in turn have been the guides of our national life and founders of our political institutions. It is no vain pride of Puritanism that it fostered such men and made them the ruling spirits of the nation in its early life. We are refreshed and strengthened for our mission by a knowledge of our beginning. We are not altogether untrue to our fathers. In their dark days, but sixteen years after the landing at Plymouth, when threatened by an Indian war and by the enmity of the English government, the General Court appropriated funds from their feeble treasury to found, at what is now Cambridge, a college whose motto was, "For Christ and His Church." They determined to realize in this new home their ideal of an educated Christian society. Their descendants have astonished the world by the wise generosity with which they have promoted education and fostered an intelligent and conscientious citizenship. Last year they gave more than sixty-three millions of dollars for schools and colleges and libraries, which should meet the need of all classes of the people and train the new-comers to a thoughtful use of the freedom and an intelligent support of the institutions which they have planted and fostered. The charge of early narrowness is met by the fact that to-day, in the exercise of that personal independence which they inculcated, their children are to be found in every church communion which was then known, and in new ones which they, with an invention which is an astonishment to men and angels, have called into being, from Mormonism to esoteric theosophy. As the Pilgrims of Plymouth leavened the Puritans of Salem and Boston, so they together have diffused their principles through all the increasing population of the expanding nation. No other people in human history have received such diverse and antagonistic elements, and transformed them into loyal and devoted citizens. The principles of the Mayflower compact, protected at first by what some modern critics condemn as intolerance, blossomed into the New England town meeting, and bore fruit in the constitution of Connecticut, written in the study of parson Thomas Hooker, from which sprang the germinal ideas of the Constitution of the United States. The civic and social reformers of to-day make their most effective appeals to the spirit and example of the founders. The New England conscience, inconvenient sometimes to its possessors, points the way of deliverance out of the most complex entanglement of our political, industrial, and social conditions.

We honor the fathers by keeping their ideals ever before us. We build our best and most enduring monument to the Pilgrims by catching and expressing their spirit. In the words of Emerson: "Let us shame the fathers by superior virtue in the sons."

THE FIRST PILGRIM SPRING.
THERE WE FOUND SPRINGS OF FRESH WATER
OF WHICH WE WERE HEARTILY GLAD, AND SAT
US DOWN AND DRUNKE OUR FIRST NEW ENGLAND WATER
WITH AS MUCH DELIGHT AS EVER WE DRUNKE
DRINKE IN ALL OUR LIVES.
From Mourt's Relation

MAYFLOWER ANCESTORS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

John Alden

John Alden, born about 1599, was not a member of the Leyden Company, but, as Bradford states, "was hired for a cooper, at South-Hampton, wher the ship victualled; and being a hopfull yong man, was much desired, but left to his own liking to go or stay when he came here." He was thus about twenty-one when he signed the Compact (the seventh signer), and, electing to stay, married Priscilla, the daughter of William Mullins, whose parents had died in the first winter. This marriage was in 1622 or 1623, and was the second or third in the colony. They removed to Duxbury with those that went thither. Alden proved a most desirable member of the Pilgrim Company, as is shown by his life of manly usefulness. He was one of the eight "Undertakers" in 1627; was chosen one of the assistants in 1633, and was annually reëlected until 1641. In that year he was elected deputy from Duxbury to the General Court, and continued to serve as such until 1650, when he was again chosen a member of the Council, and so continued until his death, having been for twenty-two years the senior member of the Council. In 1646 he was made a member of the Council of War for Plymouth, and served in that capacity many years. In 1656, 1657, and 1658 he was treasurer of the colony, having succeeded Myles Standish in that office. He died at Duxbury, September 12, 1687, the last survivor of the forty-one signers of the Compact.

Isaac Allerton

Isaac Allerton, fifth signer of the Compact, is named in the Leyden Records as being "of London." He was first married at Leyden, November 4, 1611, to Mary Norris of Newbury, England. Admitted to citizenship in Leyden, February 7, 1614. He was one of the four signers of the letter from the Leyden Church to Carver and Cushman, June 1, 1620. Allerton and his wife were accompanied in the Mayflower by their son Bartholomew and by two daughters, Remember and Mary, the latter living to be, in 1699, the last survivor of the Mayflower Pilgrims. His first wife died February 25, 1620-1, and he again married, before May 22, 1627, Fear, daughter of Elder Brewster. He was reputed to have been at one time the richest man of the colony, and was from the outset active in its affairs. When Bradford was chosen governor, after Carver's death in the spring of 1621, Allerton was made assistant, or deputy governor, an office which he held alone until 1624, when the number of assistants was increased to five, and in 1633 to seven. He was one of the "Undertakers" in 1627. He made five voyages to England as agent for the colony, but that employment ceased in 1631 under circumstances which led to his leaving Plymouth soon thereafter. In 1632-33 he had a trading-post at Machias, which was pillaged by the French. In 1635 his fishing-station at Marblehead was burned. His second wife died at Plymouth, December 12, 1634, and by 1644 he had married a third wife, Joanna ——. He engaged in trade at New Amsterdam, where he had a warehouse on the East River, but spent the last years of his life at New Haven, where he died in 1659.

Francis Billington

Francis Billington, son of John and Eleanor Billington, born about 1606, came with his parents in the Mayflower. In 1634 he married Christian Penn, widow of Francis Eaton. He removed to Yarmouth before 1648. He died December 3, 1684.

John Billington

John Billington, with his wife Eleanor and two sons, Francis and John, came from London to join the Mayflower Company. Bradford does not seem to have been friendly toward them, and reports them as being "often punished for miscarriages." In 1630 "he way-laid a yong-man, one John New-comin (about a former quarrel) and shote him with a gune, whereof he dyed." What the provocation may have been or what the merits of the quarrel we do not know, but he was convicted of murder by a trial jury in September of that year.

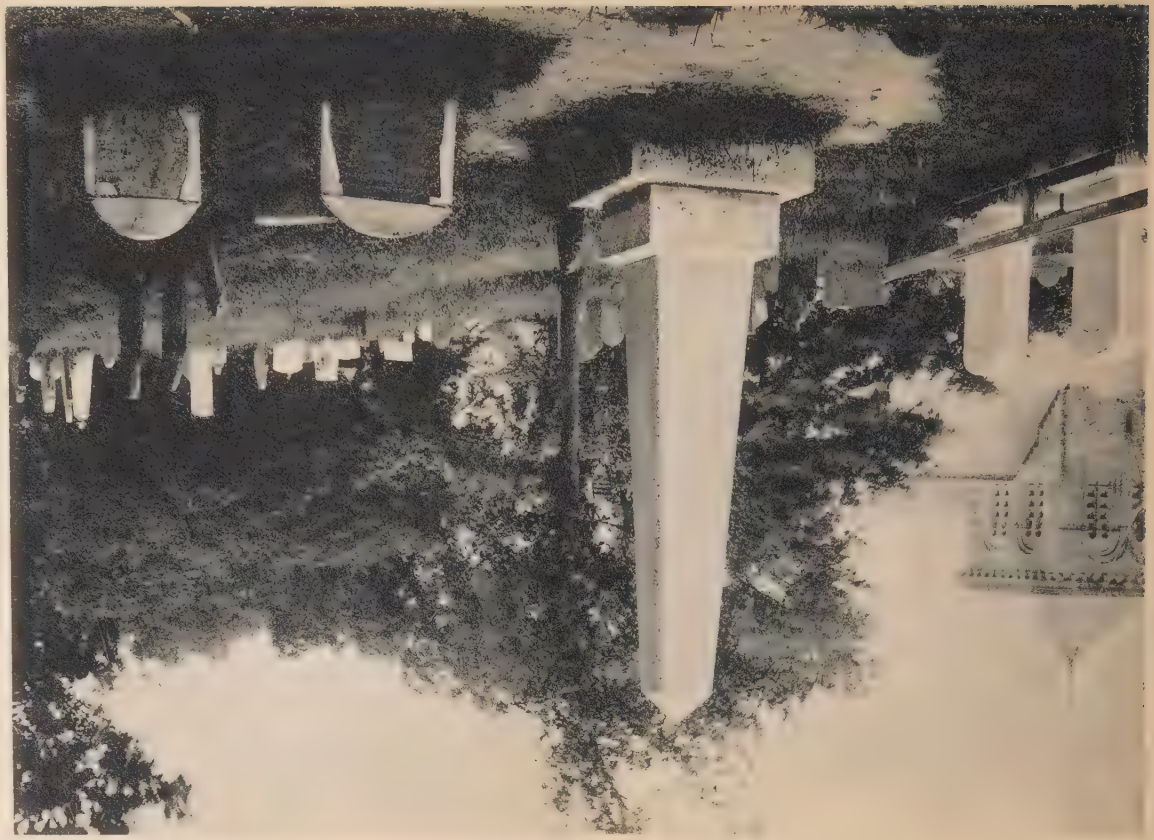
William Bradford

William Bradford, for thirty-one years Governor of Plymouth Colony, son of William and Alice (Hanson) Bradford, was baptized at Austerfield in the West Riding of Yorkshire, England, March 19, 1589. He was a thoughtful, studious boy, and, as Scrooby was but two miles distant, a fellowship sprung up between Brewster and this serious youth, who was but eighteen years old when the emigration to Holland took place. To support himself while at Leyden he apprenticed himself to a fustian weaver. He was married there, November 30, 1613, to Dorothy May of "Witzbuts" (Wisbeach?), England, who accompanied him in the Mayflower, but was drowned

Monument of Governor Bradford, Fort Hill,
now Burial Hill, Plymouth



while the ship lay at Provincetown Harbor, December 7, 1620. His name is the second in the signing of the Compact. After the death of John Carver, in April, 1621, Bradford was chosen to succeed him as governor, an office which he filled, with but five years' intermission, until his death. His second wife, married August 14, 1623, was Mrs. Alice (Carpenter) Southworth, who came in the Anne in that year. In 1627 he joined with seven others in purchasing the colonial rights from the Merchant Adventurers. In addition to his official duties, in which he was unselfishly faithful to the best interests of the struggling colony, he found time for study, for much correspondence, and for writing his invaluable history "Of Plimoth Plantation." In the relations of the colony with its neighbors, as well as with its friends and enemies at home and abroad, he displayed a worthy dignity, much tact, no little shrewdness and worldly wisdom, mingled with a becoming piety and sound business judgment. He died May 9, 1657.

Love Brewster

Love Brewster, second son of William and Mary Brewster, came with his parents and his younger brother, Wrestling, in the Mayflower. He married, May 15, 1634, Sarah, daughter of William Collier of Duxbury, where he resided in a house belonging to Elder Brewster that came into his possession after his father's death in 1644. His will was dated October 6, 1650, proved March 4, 1650-1, and Bradford, writing of him in that year, states that he "left 4 children now living."

William Brewster

William Brewster, "their reverend Elder," was born, probably at Scrooby, Nottinghamshire, England, in the latter part of 1566 or early in 1567, as is shown by an affidavit made at Leyden, June 25, 1609, when he was forty-two years of age. He was the son of that William Brewster who, in January, 1575, was appointed by Archbishop Sandys receiver of Scrooby and bailiff of his manor house there. He matriculated at Peterhouse, Cambridge, December 3, 1580, but did not remain long enough for a degree. In August, 1585, he was in the service of William Davison, then clerk of the Privy Council, and accompanied him on his embassy to the Netherlands. When the ambassador returned and was made Secretary of State, his young and trusted secretary continued with him at court until Davison's unmerited downfall in 1587, when he returned to Scrooby. Upon his father's death, in 1590, he was himself appointed "Post," or Master of the Court Mails, at Scrooby, holding that office until September, 1607. During these years the Separatist congregation, which later emigrated to Holland, was gathered from the neighboring villages under the guidance of Clifton and Robinson, meeting for worship in the old manor house at Scrooby, where Brewster entertained them "with great love" and was their "special stay and help." When in 1607 they made their first unsuccessful effort to leave England Brewster and Bradford were among the imprisoned. When finally the little band was settled under Robinson at Leyden, Brewster supported himself by teaching English to students and as a printer. Upon arrival he had been made a ruling elder of the church, and as such accompanied the Mayflower Pilgrims. His wife Mary, born about 1569, accompanied him, and died at Plymouth, April 17, 1627. He was the fourth signer of the Compact. In 1627 he was one of the eight "Undertakers." During its early years and while the colony had no minister he "taught" twice each Sabbath, and Bradford says, "Many were brought to God by his ministrie. He did more in this behalfe in a year, than many that have their hundreds a year doe in all their lives." "He was wise and discreete and well-spoken, having a grave and deliberate utterance, of a very cherfull spirite, of an humble and modest mind." He was greatly beloved. He died at Plymouth (according to the "Brewster Book"), April 10, 1644. Bradford says "aboute ye 18 of Aprill."

John Cooke

John Cooke, eldest son of Francis Cooke, and a boy at the time of the Mayflower voyage, married, March 28, 1634, Sarah, daughter of Richard Warren, and in that year was taxed equally with his father. June 7, 1637, volunteered for the Pequod War "if provision could be made for his family." He was ten times a deputy from Plymouth to the General Court between 1638 and 1656. For many years was a deacon in the Plymouth Church, but, through disagreements at the time of the Quaker troubles, that connection was severed, and he, with others, removed to Dartmouth, of which, like his father, he had been one of the first purchasers. He connected himself with the Baptist Church at Newport, and is said to have preached at Dartmouth as a minister of that denomination. He was deputy from Dartmouth to the General Court 1666-68, 1673-75, 1679-82, and in 1686. He died at Dartmouth, November 23, 1695, the last male survivor of the Mayflower passengers.

Edward Doty

Edward Doty, or Doten, the fortieth signer of the Compact, was hired by Stephen Hopkins, and came with him from London; was one of the ten Mayflower passengers who were sent with the third exploring party December 6, 1620. June 18, 1621, fought with Edward Leister, the first and only duel in the history of the colony. The name of his first wife is unknown, as is the date of that marriage. His second wife, married January 6, 1635, was Faith, daughter of Tristam or Thurston Clark of Plymouth. Bradford says that he had by this second wife seven children, who were all living in 1650. His will, however, dated March 20, 1655, names only his son Edward and his wife, who survived him. He was one of the purchasers of Dartmouth in 1652, but removed to Yarmouth, where he died August 23, 1655.

His first wife, Sarah ——, "dyed in the general sickness" of the first winter, and he is believed to have married Mrs. Carver's maid before August 14, 1623. She died soon thereafter, and before the division of cattle in 1627 he married as a third wife Christian Penn, who came in the Anne in 1623. He died at the time of the epidemic in 1633.

Dr. Samuel Fuller

Dr. Samuel Fuller, the first physician to settle in New England, had been made a deacon of the church at Leyden, and continued in that office during his life. He was thrice married, first to Elsie Glascock, then, in 1613, to Agnes, daughter of Alexander Carpenter of Wrentham, who died before 1617. In that year, at Leyden, he married Bridget Lee, who came over in the Anne in 1623, bringing their young child. He was the eighth signer of the Compact, and was one of the assistants in the government, probably as early as 1631. In 1629, having been sent to Salem upon an appeal from Governor Endicott for help in the severe sickness which prevailed at the Massachusetts Bay, he labored successfully as theologian as well as physician in overcoming the Puritan prejudice against the Separatists. It would appear from his will that he was also a teacher of youth, as he mentions three who had been committed to his oversight and "to my education." In the summer of 1633 an epidemic of "infectious fever" visited Plymouth, in which "upward of twenty persons dyed," and "in ye end (after he had much helped others)" Dr. Fuller died, between July 30, 1633, the date of his will, when he was "sick and weake," and October 28th of that year, the date of its probate. Bradford speaks of him with feeling as "a man godly and forward to doe good, being much missed after his death." His wife and two children survived him.

Samuel Fuller, 2d

Samuel Fuller (2d), son of Edward Fuller, a boy who came with his parents in the Mayflower, after their death in the first winter lived with his uncle, Dr. Samuel Fuller. He was made a freeman in 1634. He removed to Scituate, where, April 8, 1635, he married Jane, daughter of the Rev. John Lothrop, and had eight children. He settled in Barnstable about 1641, and died October 31, 1683.

Giles Hopkins

Giles Hopkins, a lad of about fifteen years in 1620, was the son of Stephen Hopkins, and accompanied his father and stepmother on the Mayflower voyage. He was born in England about 1605. He married, in October, 1639, Catharine Wheldon, and removed to Yarmouth, where he died between March 15, 1689, and April 26, 1690.

Stephen Hopkins

Stephen Hopkins was not of the Leyden Company, but came from London, joining the Pilgrims at Plymouth, England, with his second wife, Elizabeth, and their daughter Damaris, bringing also two children, Giles and Constance, by a former marriage. Another child, fitly named Oceanus, was born on the voyage, but died early, probably in the first winter. It is believed that he had once before sailed for America, accompanying Sir Thomas Gates in his expedition to Virginia in 1609, as lay reader to the chaplain, and at that time had been wrecked at Bermuda. His name appears as the fourteenth signer of the Compact. In the first exploring party sent out from the Mayflower, November 15, 1620, he was one of the three "advisers" who accompanied Captain Standish, and was also one of the party of ten, besides the boat's crew, who set out, December 6, 1620, for the third and final exploration. He accompanied Edward Winslow, July 2, 1621, on the important and successful mission to establish peace and friendship with Massasoit. He was an assistant from 1633 to 1636; was one of the committee appointed in 1637 to proportion the charges of the Pequod War, and in 1642 was one of the Council of War for Plymouth. He died in the summer of 1644, his will bearing date June 6th, and being offered for probate July 27th in that year.

John Howland

John Howland, the thirteenth signer of the Compact, was born in 1592 or 1593, probably in Essex County, England. His name first appears in Bradford's account of the Mayflower's voyage, when "in a mighty storm" this "lustie yong man" fell overboard and was with difficulty rescued, to become "a profitable member both in church and cõmone-wealthe." At this time he was attached to the service of John Carver, who had been the trusted agent of the Leyden Church in its negotiations with the Merchant Adventurers in London, and who became the first governor of the Plymouth Colony. Just what that connection was has never been made clear. By an unbroken family tradition he was believed to have been Carver's son-in-law until the discovery of Bradford's manuscript, showing that Carver left no children. He was one of the third exploring party of ten (besides the seamen) who first landed at Plymouth, December 11, 1620. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Tilley, after August 14, 1623, probably toward the close of that year or early in the year following. In 1627 he was one of the eight "Undertakers" who purchased from the Adventurers in London all their rights in the colony. In 1633, 1634, and 1635 he was chosen one of the assistants, and in 1634 was in command of the Kennebec trading-post, where he displayed manliness and courage in the much bruited Hocking affair. As early as 1641 he was a deputy to the General Court, in which he represented Plymouth for twenty-eight years. He died at Rocky Nook, February 23, 1672. The record of his death says, "Hee was a godly man and an ancient professor in the wayes of Christ. Hee lived untill hee attained above eighty yeares in the world. Hee was one of the first comers into this land, and proved a usefull instrument of good in his place, and was the last man that was left of those that came over in the shipp called the May Flower that lived in Plymouth."

Richard More

Richard More came with Elder Brewster in the Mayflower ("a boy put to him"), as did one of his brothers. Jasper More, of Carver's family, was doubtless another brother, and Ellen More, of Winslow's household, was probably a sister. All died in the first winter except Richard, who married Christian Hunt in 1636, and in 1650, according to Bradford, had four or five children then living. He had lived at Duxbury, but in 1637 sold his land at Eagle's Nest, and is thought to have removed to Scituate, where Savage and others following Deane (in the history of Scituate) have sought to identify him with that Richard Mann who was one of the Conihassett partners in 1646. He was living September 27, 1684, when Governor Simon Bradstreet certifies to the deposition of "Richard Moore Senr., aged seaventy yeares or thereabout, being in London att the House of Mr. Thomas Weston Ironmonger in the year 1620. He was from thence transported to New Plymouth in New England." He was therefore about six years old at the time of the Mayflower voyage. None of his descendants have applied for membership.

William Mullins

William Mullins, whose name is the tenth among the signers of the Compact, joined the Pilgrims with his family at Southampton. The probate at London, July 23, 1621, of his nuncupative will indicates that he came from Dorking, County Surrey, England. He died February 21, 1620-1, and his wife and son Joseph also died during the first winter. His daughter Priscilla married John Alden. His eldest son William, to whom he left his share of land, came later to the colony.

Degory Priest

Degory Priest, the twenty-ninth among the signers of the Compact, had long been a member of the Leyden Company. In the Leyden records he is named as having been from London. He was made a citizen of Leyden November 16, 1615, and in April, 1619, he made deposition (in which he called himself a hatter) that he was then forty years of age. November 14, 1611, he married Sarah, widow of John Vincent and sister of Isaac Allerton. He died January 1, 1620-1. Two of his daughters, Mary and Sarah, came in the Anne, in 1623, with their mother, who had in the meantime married her third husband, Cuthbert Cuthbertson.

Myles Standish

Myles Standish, the honored captain and military leader of the Pilgrims, is first known to us as a soldier serving with the English contingent in the Low Countries, and his commission from Elizabeth indicates that he was born about 1584, doubtless at Duxbury Hall, one of the family seats, near Chorley, Lancashire, England. He had become associated with the Pilgrims at Leyden, although he never became a church member, and on the Mayflower voyage he was accompanied by his wife Rose, who died January 29, 1620-1. His is the sixth signature to the Compact. He married, after August 14, 1623, his second wife, Barbara, one of the passengers brought by the Anne. His military knowledge and experience had from the outset been of great service in leading the exploring parties sent out from the Mayflower while she lay in Provincetown Harbor, and February 17, 1620-1, he was formally chosen captain, and organized the first military company in New England, continuing in its command until his death, his prompt and watchful decisiveness often averting disaster from the feeble colony. He was a man of small stature but of martial spirit, with somewhat choleric temper and of well-proved courage and resolution. He took a prominent part in civil affairs, and was an assistant in 1631, serving in that office for nineteen years. In 1625 he went to England on behalf of the colony's affairs, and in 1627 became one of the eight "Undertakers" who purchased the colony's trade rights from the London "Adventurers." For six years he was the treasurer of the colony. About 1631 he removed to "Captain's Hill" in Duxbury, and in 1632 was one of the petitioners for the incorporation of Duxbury as a separate town. He died October 3, 1656.

John Tilley

John Tilley, the sixteenth signer of the Compact, came with his wife, whose name is unknown, and "Elizabeth their daughter." He was one of the "10 of their principall men" who, with the boat's crew, made up the third and final party of exploration sent out from the Mayflower while at Provincetown Harbor. It is probable that he was a brother of Edward Tilley. Both he and his wife "dyed a little after they came ashore." Dr. Henry M. Dexter, in a note to his edition of "Mourt's Relation," 1865, quotes from the Leyden MS. Records, "13-23, February, 1615. John Telley, silk-worker of Leyden married Bridget Van der Velde." She could not have been the mother of Elizabeth Tilley, who was born in 1607 and who married John Howland, and the explicitness of Bradford's record of this daughter would indicate that the silk-worker "John Telley" of Leyden was not identical with the Mayflower Pilgrim. Dr. Dexter wrote in 1888 that he was convinced that the Leyden record referred to another person. Until 1855 it was supposed, through family tradition, that John Howland's wife was a daughter of Governor Carver, which gives some foundation for the belief that a relationship existed, and that Elizabeth Tilley may have been a granddaughter of the first governor.

John Turner

John Turner was a member of the Leyden Company, and first appears as the messenger sent by them to England with their letter to Carver and Cushman, in June, 1620, and the bearer of Cushman's reply, in which he told of the selection of the Mayflower for their expected voyage. He was the twenty-second signer of the Compact. He brought with him two sons, but all three died in the first sickness. A daughter, however, came over later, and in 1650 Bradford wrote that she was living at Salem, "well married and approved of." None of his descendants have applied for membership.

Richard Warren

Richard Warren was not a member of the Leyden Company, but one of those from London who joined the Pilgrims at Plymouth, England. His wife Elizabeth, whose maiden name is unknown, came over in the Anne in 1623, bringing five daughters. They had two sons born in Plymouth; to one, Nathaniel, a grant of land was made in consideration of being one of the first-born children in the colony. His is the twelfth signature to the Compact. He was one of the final exploring party sent out in the Mayflower's shallop, and therefore landed at Plymouth, December 21, 1620. His home at Plymouth was in the section later known as Hobshole, where he died in 1628. Secretary Morton speaks of him as a "useful Instrument; and during his life bore a deep share in the Difficulties and Troubles of the first Settlement of the plantation of New-Plymouth."

Peregrine White

Peregrine White, the first child born in New England, was the son of William and Susanna White, born on board the Mayflower, between November 27 and 30, 1620, while the ship lay in Provincetown Harbor. In 1632 removed to Marshfield with his stepfather's (Governor Winslow's) family. Was a volunteer for the Pequod War in 1636; in 1642 was "ancient-bearer" (or ensign) of Standish's "train band," of which he afterwards became lieutenant, and in 1673 captain. In 1648 he married Sarah, daughter of William Bassett. He was representative from Marshfield in the General Court in 1660 and 1673, and in the latter year a member of the Council of War. He died at Marshfield, July 20, 1704.

Resolved White

Resolved White, son of William and Susanna White, born 1615, came with his parents on the Mayflower. His widowed mother having married Edward Winslow, he removed with them to Marshfield, and April 8, 1640, married Judith, daughter of William Vassall of Scituate. He died between 1690 and 1694, and was the last male survivor but one (John Cooke) of the Mayflower Company.

William White

William White, named in the Leyden Records as a "wool carder from England," married in that city, February 1, 1612-13, Susanna Fuller, a sister of Dr. Samuel Fuller, who accompanied him on the Mayflower voyage with one son, Resolved, another son, Peregrine, being born to them while the Mayflower still lay anchored in Provincetown Harbor. He was the eleventh signer of the Compact. He died February 21, 1620-1.

Edward Winslow

Edward Winslow, third Governor of Plymouth Colony, son of Edward and Magdalen (Oliver) Winslow, was born at Droitwich, Worcestershire, England, October 18, 1595; a man of education and good descent; joined Robinson's flock at Leyden when on a tour in Holland in 1617, and is believed to have been associated with Brewster there in the printing business. His first wife was Elizabeth Barker of Chester, England, whom he married at Leyden, May 16, 1618. She accompanied him to America, but died March 24, 1620-1. He was the third signer of the Compact, and was one of those sent out in the third exploring party. He was again married May 12, 1621, to Mrs. Susanna White, widow of William White, this being the first marriage in the colony. In July, 1621, he was sent, accompanied by Stephen Hopkins, on a successful mission of amity to the Indian chief Massasoit, of which his own account was published. In 1627 he was one of the eight "Undertakers" who bought up the rights of the Merchant Adventurers in London. In 1633 he was chosen governor at the earnest request of Bradford, who had served continuously for twelve years. Doubtless he had been one of the assistants prior to this, although there is no record of these magistrates until 1633. He was again chosen governor in 1636 and 1644, was assistant in many intervening years, and was commissioner for Plymouth to the United Colonies Confederation in 1643. He was a man of eminent ability, rendering the colony efficient diplomatic service in the various negotiations with its neighbors at the Massachusetts Bay, and exercising wisdom and tact when sent on its affairs to England. When the Anne departed, in September, 1623, he sailed with her on behalf of the colony, securing while in England the patent for their fishing-station at Cape Ann, and before returning in the spring he published in London his "Good Newes from New England." Late in 1630 he again sailed from Boston to investigate and adjust their dealings with the London partners, returning in June, 1632. Again in 1634 he was sent to defend the colony's course in the Kennebec affair should it be questioned in council, at the same time taking a valuable cargo for their profit. In 1646, on account of his "presence, speech, courage, and understanding," the Bay Colony engaged him to again visit England on their behalf, and he never returned to America. In 1652 Cromwell made him chairman of a joint commission of award, and in 1655 sent him as chief of three commissioners to capture the Spanish West Indies and to establish himself as governor. While voyaging to Jamaica in continuance of this at first unsuccessful expedition, he died and was buried at sea May 8, 1655.
